FARMERS IN POLITICS.

Alliance Men Urged to Present a United and Firm Front.

DES MOINES, IOWA, Oct. 30.—The Iowa Farmers' Alliance met here yesterday in annual session, with an attendance of 600 delegates. President J. B. Furrow, in his annual address, dwelt at some length upon the necessity of remedying present industrial conditions by legislation and by the application of better methods of farming. He exhorted the members of the Alliance to band together, vote together and present a united front to the monopolies of the country.

Delegate Griffith of Cass County spoke upon the Alliance staying out of politics. He said it was foolish to endeavor to control the party caucus and the old parties. The old parties were opposed to each other and brought alliance men into conflict. The farmers must organize a political party. He referred to the political action of the Southern Alliance and the movement in Nebraska and counseled their action. The work of organization was completed last night, and to-day the business of the convention will be taken up.

SUED A CONGRESSMAN.

Mr. Burrows of Michigan Refused to Pay His Note.

PAW PAW, MICH., Oct. 30.—Charles Duconbe of Keeler yesterday filed a suit in the Circuit Court of this county against Julius Cesar Burrows of Kalamazoo, Congressman from this district and recently a prominent candidate for Speaker of the House for 1891. It is understood that Mr. Duconbe holds Burrows' note for that amount, and that Burrows has utterly refused to pay. Duconbe has always been one of the most influential farmers in the county, and Burrows' intimate friend.

CAUSE FOR BIG DAMAGES.

The Patent Fire-Alarm Gun Device Used Without Permission.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Oct. 30.—Judge Gresham yesterday decided that the Indianapolis owners of the patent fire-alarm gun device, in common use by city fire departments throughout the country, have cause for recovery of damages where the alarm has been used without their permission. This involves nearly every city in the country. The patent is in the automatic fire-alarm gun, which is given release from the holder from their staffs.

IMPORTED OPTIUM.

The Treasury Department has addressed a circular letter to all custom officers in regard to stamping imported optium. Each officer is directed, before he delivers any prepared optium for smoking to the importer to affix a custom stamp stating the date imported, the name of the vessel and port from which imported, and to affix his own signature.

STOLEN BOTTLE EXPLOSION.

MARION, ILL., Oct. 30.—The boiler in the Cottonwood Flouring Mills exploded yesterday afternoon seriously wounding James Bone, one of the proprietors, and his six-year-old son, also a man named Allen, the fireman. The engine house was demolished. Loss $3,500.

ON FAME'S ROLL

THE GALLANT HEROES OF THE JEANNETTE HONORED.

MONUMENT UNVEILED AT ANNAPOLIS.

Imposing Ceremony at the Naval Academy This Afternoon.

PROFESSOR SOLEY'S BRILLIANT ORATION.

The Story of the Dark Tragedy Told in Poetic Language—Detailed Description of the Monument.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Oct. 30.—The monument erected at the Annapolis Naval Academy to commemorate the heroism of the officers and men of the Jeannette, who perished in a melancholy fate in the Arctic expedition of 1879, was unveiled to-day with appropriate ceremonies.

The monument was designed by Lieutenant George P. Colvocoresses, U. S. N., the head of the department of drawing at the Academy, and it embodies as nearly as possible the idea of the cross and cairn placed over the graves of Lieutenant Commander DeLong and his party, at the mouth of the Lena Delta, by Chief Engineer Melville. The base of the monument is of granite and is surmounted by an elongated pyramid of white marble, on which rests a white marble cross. About the base of the cross is a bronze altar.

A plate of bronze set in the granite bears an appropriate inscription. The monument was erected by the officers and men of the Navy and by James Gordon Bennett. The dedication ceremony took place at 2:30 o'clock. A distinguished company had come from Washington by railroad, and over the Pennsylvania Railroad, it included Mrs. De Long, the widow of Lieutenant Commander DeLong, Commodore Melville, who headed the relief expedition sent out to rescue De Long and his party, and a large number of naval officers and civilians.

The programme of the ceremony was opened by the chaplain of the Academy, the Rev. H. H. Clark, who delivered a prayer. Commander E. M. Barber, U. S. N., the chairman of the monument committee, made a brief speech, formally dedicating the monument to the service of the Navy and the Phylarch, the Superintendent of the Navy-Yard, replied. Assistant Secretary Boley then delivered an address.

MR. SOLEY'S ORATION.

Mr. Soley entered into a detailed description of the perils and hardships experienced by the members of the expedition, and closed with the following poetic peroration:

"Dead they are indeed, but in dying they did not leave behind them a remnant of the service they loved and died for remains, and will remain forever, a precious heritage. That long retreat over 500 miles of drifting ice and open ocean, a retreat matchless in the record of Arctic exploration, shines out even through the dark tragedy at its close with the triumphant splendor of a victory won. On the long roll of the world's exploits are no braver names than those of De Long and his gallant company of the Jeannette. They fell not, warriors though they were, in war, nor was the fate of nations turned by the hand of the hero. But it is not in war alone that martyrs win their crowns, nor is it only in the clash of arms and the din of battle that is revealed the beauty of heroic death. With the rays of moon on their white shields of expectation, illuminated with the radiance of their own imperishable fame, serenely waiting behind a large line of the corner, a chorus of uplifted voices came the ringing notes of an 'In Trumpery,' re-echoing throughout all the ages, proclaiming in eternal harmonies the glory of those who fought their fight, out to the end and who, through death, achieved indying victory."

COWARDLY ASSASSINATION.

A Wealthy Farmer Murdered in a Field Near His Home.

ROSELLEVILLE, KY., Oct. 30.—George W. Crim, a wealthy farmer, was murdered in a field near his home in this county Tuesday. His remains were found in a large hole in the ground, and a large number of witnesses were present. Tracks were plainly discerned on the ground near the tree, but there is no clue to his slayer.

AN IMMENSE ADVANCE SALE.

The sale of tickets for the Washington tonight of the South Barrett performances at Allbaugh's Theatre in Baltimore, began to-day at Miller's, on Fifteenth street. Long before midnight last night there was a big crowd patiently waiting for tickets, and when the doors were opened this morning the line extended down Fifteenth street. The sale was continued by the new arrivals eager to procure seats for the famous tragedienne's engagement. It could not be learned late this afternoon what the receipts were, but there is no doubt that it was the largest advance sale that has ever taken place in this city.

REMOVED DEATH OF A CONSIDERABLE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The World this morning says a report was in circulation yesterday that George S. Knight, the alleged counsellor, had died in the Retreat for the Insane, in which he had been placed some months ago. Mr. Knight, whose real name was George Smith, was about 45 years of age.

RECEIVED BILL IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—Owing to the new tariff law of the United States 1,000 waxes in Saxony are idle.

A RUSSIAN EX-PRIST.

He is Mobbed by an Angry Crowd at Amesbury, Mass.

AMESBURY, MASS., Oct. 30.—For a few days past a former priest named Thomas E. Leyder of Boston, has been laboring here in the interest of the Russian cause. He is alleged by the Russian publicans to be a convert to the Russian faith. His first lecture was delivered Monday evening, and his subject "Romanism," and although he was repeatedly interrupted, he went through to the end.

Yesterday afternoon he spoke privately to ladies, explaining the aims of his mission connected with the conversion of America. A large number of the best known ladies in the city were present and highly praised the ex-priest for his manly talk.

The Roman Catholic citizens of the city, however, are indignant, and last night a mob of persons of all nationalities were gathered around Arthur's Opera House, where Leyder was to lecture. The entire police force of the city was on duty. As Mr. Leyder was taken to the hotel towards the Opera House he was greeted with cries of "Turncoat," "Liar" and other obnoxious names; but when he reached the entrance of the Opera House he was just over the temple and knocked him insensible. It could not be learned who threw the stone. When he recovered he was taken to the Opera House, and was greeted with round after round of applause, as covered with blood, he mounted the stage and delivered a bitter address against the Roman Catholic Church.

The city is greatly excited over the occurrence, and serious trouble, if not bloodshed, is feared. At midnight the lecturer had returned to his hotel, which was surrounded by an excited mob.
